MISS CHARLOTTE BEMISS, one of the most charming debutantes of the past season, was hostess of a very attractive box party Friday evening to Misses "Father and the Boys" at the Academy of Music. Miss Bemiss's guests included Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hinton Boshier, Miss Mary Peterkin, Leslie Reed and Erskine Buford.

Others noted in the audience were Miss Nancy Patton, Dorothy Clifton, Helen Lathrop, Marie Leiby, Jordan, Lucy Witt, Wardell Crenshaw, Daisy Boykin, Sarah and Mamie Baughman, Mr. and Mrs. Eppa Hunt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Nolting, Mr. and Mrs. J. Newton Vaughan, Palmer Leiby, E. B. Snyder, Nelson Robbins, F. L. Sutherland, John Lea, Mrs. Plummer, of Petersburg; Mr. Talbot, James H. Drake, Jr., and others. Card Tournament.

The sixth meeting of the card tournament at the Woman's Club was held on Friday evening at the club. There were thirteen tables engaged, and top score was made by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cannon. After the game a charming collation was served. The next meeting will be on the evening of Friday, April 22, and straight whist will be played.

Returned From Petersburg. Miss Louise Word has returned from Petersburg, where she was the house guest of Mrs. Stanley Wall for several weeks. Miss Word attended the hop given at the Riverside Country Club last Saturday afternoon, and was also present at the Easter german in Petersburg.

Prominent Engagement. An engagement of interest to Baltimore and Philadelphia just announced is that of Miss Alice G. W. Ridgely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ridgely, to Mr. J. B. Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Whitman, of Philadelphia. Miss Ridgely is a charming girl and the first of the season's debutantes to announce her engagement. No date for the wedding has been set.

Mr. Whitman has a number of relatives and friends in Richmond, and has visited here on several occasions. Miss Wingfield Honored.

Mrs. G. B. Snyder was hostess on Friday evening for a delightful entertainment, given in honor of her niece, Miss Eleanor Wingfield, of Richmond, and her friend, Miss Jones, of Memphis, Tenn. The principal feature of the evening was a contest—abbreviated States. Miss Thompson having correctly abbreviated the larger number of States, was awarded the prize—a large bunch of lilies of the valley. For Miss Puryear.

A delightful Easter dance was given by the young men of the town on Monday night in honor of Miss Lucy Puryear, of Danville, who is this week the charming guest of Miss Edie Edmunds, in Chase City. Among those who participated were: Miss Puryear, or Danville, with Mr. Herndon; Miss Perkins, with Arthur Robertson; Miss Dietrich, with Albert Brooks; Miss Overby, with Thomas Haskins; Miss Edmunds, with Mr. Carver; Miss Smith, with H. H. Ferrell; Miss Beaver, with A. L. Jeffreys; Miss Roberts, with Mr. Goode; Miss Anderson, with L. W. Harris; Miss Gregory, with Alfred Huston; J. L. Bryson, J. L. Price, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Roberts and Mrs. Alice Hardy, chaperons.

Miss Puryear has frequently visited in this city as the guest of relatives here.

Collins—Cottrell. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Cottrell, of 1509 Grove Avenue, have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Julia, to Dr. Joseph Dorsey Collins, of Portsmouth, Va., the ceremony to take place Thursday evening, April 7, at 6 o'clock, in Park Place Methodist church.

Mrs. Hooker's Parlor Talk. Miss Johnston and Miss Elsie Johnston have invited a number of friends to hear a parlor talk that will be given in their drawing-rooms, 110 East Franklin Street, to-morrow afternoon, April 5, by Mrs. Donald Hooker, of Baltimore, Md., who will be Miss Johnston's house guest for several days of this week. Mrs. Hooker, who is a delightful talker, has frequently delighted Baltimore audiences. Richmond women will have the opportunity of bearing her for the first time. Mrs. Hooker will be accompanied in coming to Richmond by Mrs. Stuart Symington, a niece of Mrs. George A. Harbottle, of 505 East Grace Street. Mrs. Hooker will meet a second Richmond audience at the home of Mrs. Harbottle on Wednesday afternoon, and it is hoped that a third reading can be arranged for one of the evenings during her stay in Richmond.

Jarrett—Andrews. One of the most interesting events of the spring season was the marriage of Miss Anna Andrews to Dr. James T. Jarrett, which took place Thursday evening at 9:30 o'clock in Trinity M. E. Church, Roanoke, with the Rev. W. H. H. Joyce, pastor of the church, officiating.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and Easter lilies. N. E. Work, organist, played Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the party entered the church. The bridesmaids were Miss Mabel Montgomery, of Rocky Mount; Miss Mary Churchill, Miss Sarah Cox and Miss Sallie Shooker.

Messrs. A. G. Cheving, Jr., Richmond; Lamkin, Frank Gregory and William Gregory were groomsmen.

Little Misses—Irene Breslin and Mary Engleby acted as flower girls, and preceded the maid of honor, Miss Mary Hughes, of Altoona, Pa. The bride entered with her father, and the groom followed by John Borum, of Portsmouth, Va. The bride wore an exquisite gown of crepe meteor trimmed with Russian point lace. Her veil was held with natural orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of sweetpeas.

The maid of honor wore a handsome pink messaline, and carried a sheaf of pink roses. The bridesmaids wore dainty dresses of pink pompadour mull and carried shepherd's crooks tied with ribbon and roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrews. Dr. and Mrs. Jarrett left on the midnight train for a Northern trip, and after April 15 will be at Hotel Monroe, Portsmouth.

On Monday Miss Mary Churchill was hostess at a delightful luncheon in honor of the bride, and on Tuesday afternoon she was the honoree of a "lamb shower" given by her grandmother, Mrs. Thomas Engleby, at her home, on Campbell Avenue.

Attend Dance in Ashland. Misses Annie Laurie Haynes, Louise Miller, Katherine Robinson, Cheving, Timmy, Keran, Imogene Riddick, and Kitty Wren, of Richmond, were among the dancers at the german given by the Chesterfield Cottillion Club on Tuesday night in Ashland, Va.

Engagement Announced. The engagement of Robert C. Thompson, of the Third Presbyterian Church, corner Broad and Twenty-sixth Streets, April 5 and 6. Sessions will be held at 10 A. M. and 2 P. M., but no night sessions. The 2 o'clock session on Wednesday will be devoted to young people's work, and it is earnestly hoped that leaders and other women interested in this work of all denominations will attend and take part in the service, which will be part of the program.

Meet To-Day. The Hollywood Memorial Association will meet in the lecture room of the Second Presbyterian Church to-day at noon. Members are asked to be present.

Willingham—Battle. On Wednesday evening, March 29, the Church of the Good Shepherd, in Rocky Mount, was the scene of one of the most brilliant and fashionable weddings of the season, when Miss Helene Battle became the bride of Andrew Broadus Willingham, of Richmond.

The church was decorated in spring flowers, palms and evergreens. W. B. Darrow presided at the organ. While waiting for the bride party to enter the church, Mrs. J. Robert Cooper, clad in a handsome dress of white, messaline with pearl trimmings, and white beaver picture hat, sang "Oh, Perfect Love."

At the hour of 5 the bride party entered the church in the following order: J. H. Mahler, of Durham, and Edgar W. Smith, of Rocky Mount; T. J. Walker, of Rocky Mount; Miss Mary Hardison, with M. M. Gray, of Richmond; Miss Margaret Gray, of Winston-Salem, N. C.; with T. M. Anderson, of Richmond; Miss Marie Bryan, of Richmond; Mr. Bagand, of Richmond; Miss Maud Phillips, with E. S. Christian, of Richmond. The bridesmaids all wore white messaline with white veils, and carried white prayer-books.

Mrs. Thomas H. Battle, the dame of honor, wore a pink messaline with pearl trimmings, and carried pink roses. The maid of honor, Miss Katharine Shepherd, wore a beautiful gown of pink radium with veil to match, carrying an exquisite bouquet of bridesmaid roses. The bride wore a beautiful gown of real lace, over white duchess satin, and carrying a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley, entered on the arm of Thomas H. Battle, who gave her away.

They were met at the foot of the chancel by Andrew Willingham, on the arm of his brother, W. A. Willingham, of Henderson, N. C., his best man. Rev. R. B. Owens performed the ceremony.

After the ceremony at the church the bride party were driven in automobiles to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Dossy Battle, the bride's mother; Mrs. A. E. Willingham, Sr., of South Boston, Va., mother of the groom, and his sisters, Mrs. W. A. Gray and Miss Willingham, both of South Boston. The bride and groom were then driven to the home of the late Judge Dossy Battle, of Edgecombe county, N. C., and is a young woman of charming personality, and is widely known in society circles in Virginia. The groom is the son of the late Andrew B. Willingham, of South Boston, and comes from one of the most prominent families of Southern Virginia. He recently moved to Richmond, holding a very responsible position in the leaf tobacco department of the American Tobacco Company.

Returned From the South. Miss Anna M. Hurt, of Clover, Va., who has been visiting friends in Gainesville, Fla., and Danville and Chatham, has returned to her home.

The semi-annual banquet given by the German-Sunday school class of the Allen Avenue Christian Church, was held on Friday at 411 North Lombardy Street. Mrs. Hagaman sang several selections, accompanied by Mr. Hagaman at the piano. Decorations were in yellow and white flowers, and among those present were Rev. Mr. Atkins, pastor of the church, and J. L. Hill.

MRS. NAVY OF WALNUT

Mrs. Navy of Walnut Writes Interestingly About Her Case, Which After Dragging for Years, Was Finally Relieved In One Week.

Walnut, N. C.—"I suffered more or less during girlhood from female weakness," writes Mrs. Mollie Navy, of this place. "After I was married I was almost bedridden, and had to give up. We had three doctors. All the time I was getting worse. My trouble would last from 7 to 28 days. I gave Cardui a trial, and in one week I could eat, sleep and joke as well as anybody. In eight weeks I was well. I was an invalid for five weary years. Cardui relieved me when everything else failed."

If you are weak and ailing, think what it would mean to recover as rapidly and surely as did Mrs. Navy. In over fifty years this strength-building remedy has been used by thousands of ladies, who found it of untold value in relieving womanly pains and ailments.

No medicine without merit could remain in such constant use and show such a continual increase in sales as Cardui has done. It is common-sense to judge a medicine, as well as a man, by success. Cardui is successful.

Among the Books and Magazines

"A Modern Chronicle."

By Winston Churchill. The Macmillan Co. of New York. $1.50. Winston Churchill, by virtue of the romanticism of "Richard Carvel," the realism of "Coniston" and the modernity of "Mr. Grewe's Career," has come to be regarded as a brilliant, versatile and representative figure in the American world of letters.

The motif of "The Modern Chronicle" is somewhat different from that of his former novels. Its dominant note is struck by a woman, who is certainly the principal character in the book. This woman, Honora Leffingwell, has been the Virginia blood in her veins, her having come from Kentucky in a coach and six to settle in St. Louis, on the banks of the Mississippi, and a diplomatic position occupied by her father, Randolph Leffingwell, at Nice, in Southern France, having fixed her birthplace in the country.

Derivatives of both parents by a tragic accident, Honora Leffingwell has been brought back at an early age to the home of her uncle, Tom Leffingwell, in St. Louis, and grows from infancy to young womanhood under his roof and as his adopted daughter. Tom Leffingwell's household is a very modest one. His head's destiny, as a worker in a bank, has been fixed by his father's failure and death years before the story opens. His inability to accumulate wealth is understood by the reader, and the debt incurred during the brief brilliancy of his brother's diplomatic career. Whatever the truth may have been, Tom Leffingwell accepts his responsibilities like a man and discharges them without a trace of bitterness or resentment.

His attitude toward the debt is rendered the nineteenth century Southern matron and wife the sanest, moralist and the truest embodiment of domestic virtues in the world. Her modesty keeps her in the background. She is not brought forward aggressively through the different phases of the story, but she stands for the serenity, the motherliness and the repose of a generation ago, as eternally opposed to the restlessness, the ideas and the ambitions which stir women of today.

Her life is a study in the different phases of the story, but she stands for the serenity, the motherliness and the repose of a generation ago, as eternally opposed to the restlessness, the ideas and the ambitions which stir women of today.
